

To Solve The "Mystery Ships"

(By U. S. Press)

Washington, July —Following on the heels of widespread conjecture of modern submarine piracy, and numerous press accounts of "mysteryships" it appears that an effort is to be made to wrest sunken treasure from the sea.

The United States Coast Guard Service and the Bureau of Navigation of the Department of Commerce have been asked to furnish statistical data covering the cargo vessels, lost along the Atlantic Coast for the past fifty years.

Salvage concerns making the request claim to have equipment and facilities for major salvage operations except in extreme depths. It is hoped to learn from the authorities the exact positions of sunken vessels and from their insurers, the value and nature of the cargo laden. It is the intention of the salvors to raise the vessels when possible, and where this is impracticable, to recover the treasure.

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

—EMERSON

Never in the history of the automobile business has the truth of this saying been proved so conclusively as in the SALES of Studebaker Cars in Greater New York—not including Metropolitan District,—and over the entire country in the six months ending June 30, 1921. In Greater New York in June alone we sold
